INTERVIEW WITH ARTSMAGAZINE

Mariam Amyra

Artiste peintre créative

Artiste autodidacte, Mariam Amyra a toujours aimé peindre. Des études scientifiques, une formation graphiste 3D à l'École d'art Gobelins Paris, une jolie famille qui se promène joyeusement aux quatre coins du monde -Alexandrie, Casablanca, Montréal, Bangkok, Ho Chi Minh ou Madagascar où elle réside actuellement...-, Mariam a réussi à faire de sa passion, un métier. Travaillant en musique, sachant lâcher prise, Mariam possède l'art d'exprimer parfaitement, à travers ses œuvres, sa créativité, son énergie et son amour des voyages. Elle peint, avec le cœur, un retour joyeux et serein à l'enfance. Son intuition féconde et son imaginaire fertile l'entraînent vers des paysages et des univers féériques aux couleurs vibrantes (Mariam s'inspire également, entre autres, du mouvement Pop art) qui la surprennent et l'amusent à chaque fois et que, sans nul doute, vous adorerez admirer et posséder. Découvrant inlassablement de nouvelles cultures et de nouvelles techniques, ses toiles se rapprochent de la nature. Ainsi, elle emploie de plus en plus, dans son travail, des pigments naturels et la terre rouge, par exemple, orne admirablement ses tableaux. Une façon « écologique » et très originale de mettre en valeur la terre sur laquelle ils ont été créés. Une manière également, pour vous, de partager l'énergie de l'artiste et de la suivre dans ses incessants périples.

Retrouvez les œuvres de Mariam Amyra les 4, 5 et 6 avril 2025 au salon Art Shopping au Carrousel du Louvre à Paris

I was happy to see that I have become bolder in my creativity, both in the size of the paintings and the techniques I've used. On the World's edge is my first very large painting, and I had to rethink some of my habits as a painter to complete this very large canvas, a nice challenge that I was pleased with.

Abstract landscape 2 was my first painting entirely made of natural pigments that were home made! I was amazed to see all the contrast and the panel of colors I was able to create. I didn't think while painting it, I just enjoyed the feeling of the coarse textures under my fingers, the intensity of the red ochre balanced by the muted color of the ash... I love the raw and natural feel there is to this piece.

I have spent time exploring and enlarging my “Flow” series. These paintings are like a balm to the heart. Soothing layers of organic shapes, playing hide and seek with their transparency.

What I like most when painting these pieces, is that I have to let go completely and trust the process to get that organic feel. I play with water, let it run its course, a little guidance here and there but not too much... Then I spend time observing, reshaping some areas, enhancing others. It is a beautiful experience where the ego is muted, a step further in my journey towards Trust.

PAINTING WITH NATURAL PIGMENTS

As many of you know, I have recently discovered a passion for creating my own natural pigments. While traveling around Madagascar, I carefully select rocks, carefully ground and sift them to get a fine and vibrant pigment.

In the past months, I have been exploring ways of using those pigments and how to create stunning pieces full of life.
